

H1N1 Flu Vaccine Status

The Centers for Disease Control and Prevention (CDC) continues to recommend vaccination against the H1N1 flu virus. Many people in the United States still remain susceptible to the H1N1 virus as it continues to circulate in the U.S. and the world, although at lower levels. Now is a window of opportunity to be vaccinated. H1N1 will most likely remain with us throughout the year at some level, but there is a risk that it may change enough to cause more severe illness in the population in the future.

Vaccine is still available in the community. Please call your physician or the Dickinson-Iron District Health Department at (906)779-1868 or (906)265-4150 for an appointment. There is no charge for the H1N1 vaccination at the health department clinics.
